A new Chrome update, out Friday, includes a tweak to search that aims to make Google's browser more like the current version of Safari than the Apple Web browser, according to an Associated Press report. The update, which also includes a tweak to Gmail, automatically arranges emails from friends into conversations when you sign into the Gmail service, according to the report. The Gmail search feature automatically sorts emails into conversations based on the last three email exchanges between Gmail accounts. That means Google avoids highlighting email exchanges that are simply responding to previous messages from friends, the report says.

What's New in the Office Spinner For Chrome?

This small but useful Chrome extension creates a highly competitive and fun game for you and your colleagues. If you are spending more time than you like arguing who should bring the coffee today, then this is the extension for you. All you have to do is play the game and it will reward you with a free coffee for every request you do! No longer will your office discussions be restricted to drinking your coffee. All you have to do to register for the game is to click on the new request button in your game. Everyone in the group will get an opportunity to make a request, but only one will be selected from the results. Once selected, you're expected to go out and pick the coffees of the other participants. After your friend has collected all their coffees, they will spin the wheel and the person who doesn't have any coffee selected will be out and have to go get all your friends' coffees. And the best part is the winner will be rewarded with the coffee of their choice! If you lose, the other participants of the group will still have an opportunity to win, as they are all asked to make a request. So go ahead and make a request in the game, and get everyone a free coffee. How to install: Before you install the extension, you will have to ensure that the extension is allowed in Chrome. If the extension is disabled in the Chrome settings, follow the steps shown below to enable it: Tap on the picture shown below. Select More tools and then Extensions. Look for the option that says 'Allow from the list' and press the Set Extension Options.
